Lieutenant Governor Willard.
Mr. Joseph E. Willard has made a public announcement of his candidacy for Governor of Virginia. This worthy ambition has long been suspected by his friends, so the announcement is not in the nature of a surprise.

We believe Mr. Willard to be well equipped for the position. Without being a great orator he is a fluent and graceful speaker, and without that profundness of thought that comes with experience and long service in office, he is well posted in public matters and is fully capable of a wise administration of the affairs of this State.

The sum of his patriotism is found in the fact that with a fortune that would open to him a political or social career anywhere in this country his affections have clung around the old inferior associations of his childhood, and come weal or woe, his heart, his fortune and his life are with the people of Virginia.

Mr. Willard is among the few rich men whose riches one forgets when in his presence. There is nothing about the man's person or manner which suggest their possession. This is what we cannot say about any other rich person.
He is just the man when you see him enter a train that you feel like sharing your seat with, and talk over the events of the day.

In most rich men there is an ill concealed indifference to everything and everybody. The consciousness of the power of their possessions is seen in every movement and every word. All of them have friends that are doubtless sincere, but they miss many sincere friendships among people who do not want their money except in a spirit of fair exchange and had rather miss this than subject themselves to question as to their motives. Mr. Willard awakens no such feelings.

Mr. Willard's father made his money honestly by the natural increment of property values in Washington city. He was possessed of a cynicism that made him almost a recluse. Young Willard grew up among the sassafras bushes and briars of Fairfax county guided and governed by his maiden aunts who inclined the twig the way it grew. He stumped his toes over the rocks, and raced and swam and hunted and fished with other boys of whom he was one unmarked by any outward and visible sign of riches. Their people have been his people and their God his God from then until this day. We do not believe that he would excite cupidity among the people with whom he has "lived, moved and had his being."

Certainly if his wealth has not been used as a means of preferment it should not operate as a bar to his reasonable ambition and there is nothing else against him of which we know.

We therefore welcome his candidacy for governor as an assurance that he will make a clean fight, and if nominated will make the State an honest, efficient and patriotic executive.—[Warrenton Virginian.]

Love Letters Hasten a Wedding.

The publication of the love letters of the Baron Arthur von Thielen to Elizabeth McCombs, an artists' model, of Cincinnati, which was expected to delay, if not entirely put off, the wedding of the Baron and Mrs. Lulu M. White-Watts, the wealthy widow of Dr. Watts, of Cincinnati, has had the contrary effect of hastening it. The only effect of the letters becoming public is that the ceremony will take place at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, in New York, where the Baron and Mrs. Watts are now copying adjoining apartments, instead of in Cincinnati, and that it will be performed early next week. This announcement was made Wednesday by the Baron and Mrs. Watts, whom a reporter found together at the hotel apparently happy in each other's company. "This story of the Baron's attachment for an artists' model may be very interesting," said Mrs. Watts, "but it doesn't interest me, because I have known about it for a long time. The Baron told me of it long ago. He told me of this flirtation and others, too. They have no effect whatever on me. I care for the Baron alone and we understand each other pretty thoroughly."

Working Overtime.
Eight hour laws are ignored by those tireless little workers—Dr. King's New Life Pills. Millions are always at work, night and day, curing indigestion, biliousness, constipation, sick headache and all stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy, pleasant, safe, sure. Only 25c at E. S. Leadbeater & Sons' drug store.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by Richard Gibson.
